Biography

Duncan Wright is the President of UWL, a top 15 American-owned NVOCC, 3PL, and distribution company headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio. UWL operates offices and warehouses across the US and Latin America and is backed by deep experience and knowledge of the transportation logistics industry.

Wright is responsible for strategic oversight of the organization, growth plans, product development, and technology. His hands-on approach with clients and employees ensures alignment and accountability.

Prior to UWL, he spent 5 years working for two of the largest Chinese 3PLs in the Transpacific Trade. Wright was recruited to identify, develop, and execute sweeping operational changes for The Dewell Group, a $1 billion Chinese-owned asset-based 3PL, and at The Topocean Group, where he excelled as a transformational change leader as the VP of Global Development building out their commercial organization and global agent network.

Wright spent 18 years working for Ocean Carriers within the CSX Group of Companies. The teams he led flourished as he built, structured, and directed production, e-commerce, government programs, strategy, and projects for Sea-Land Services, Inc., CSX Lines and Horizon Lines.

With experiences predominantly in the Transpacific, Americas, Asia, and Europe, he compiled a track record of building out revenue streams, organizational alignment, and new services within global ocean companies around Logistics, 3PL and NVOCC services. With a history of creative thinking and a robust technology background, Wright leverages his network and experience to continue building strong relationships with customers and vendors across the world and across cultures.
